LONDON, Oct. 7 (INS)—A London Daily Mail dispatch from Stockholm reported today the Germans are openly threatening to hold Leopold III, King of Belgium, as a hostage. The dispatch, which was the first to mention the king's name, stated that "among well known persons now prisoners in Germany, the most outstanding will be selected as hostages."

Hero's Family Gets Army Aid

Buffeted about by government red tape, Mrs. Doris B. Streck of Walnut st., Malden, wife of a soldier who has been overseas 33 months, today found out that the Army really cares.

The wife, mother of a 2-year-old son her husband has never seen, was notified by the Office of Dependency Benefits that she would get no allotment in October and only $12 in November because of money paid when the baby was born.

But now the First Service Command, warned of her plight by a Daily Record-American story, has invited her to go to Army Emergency Relief headquarters. They have promised aid.

The Army Service Forces a few days ago notified Mrs. Streck, wife of Arthur G. Streck, that she still owed them $148 which had allegedly been paid long ago at her husband's request "to avoid hardship pending first payment of family allowance."

To Mrs. Streck, whose husband has been fighting for his country in Pacific jungles for nearly three years, this statement is bewildering inasmuch as the first overpayment check listed was said to be for the month of June, 1942, after her baby was born. Little Arthur was ushered into the world May 28, 1942, six months after his father went overseas, and the Office of Dependency Benefits contributed nothing toward hospital and doctor's fees, she said.

Streck, a former member of the National Guard, married the blonde Doris Sanville of Roxbury in July of 1941, and for six months while soldiering in this country sent her $37 out of his $42 a month. He then went overseas, and after the baby was born Mrs. Streck received $310 from the Office of Dependency Benefits, which she understood to be back allotments.

She paid medical bills with the money and bought the baby a high chair and carriage. The Office of Dependency Benefits maintained a passive silence.

Thursday Mrs. Streck received an "Acknowledgment of Remittance," a receipt for $80, on which was stamped the notice, "Important—The check described hereon has not been mailed to you but applied against your indebtedness to the United States. If the amount of the check is greater than your indebtedness a check for the difference will be mailed you."

In view of the fact there is still $68 due on the alleged overpayment of $148, Mrs. Streck expects that amount will be deducted from her next month's allotment, leaving her $12.

Meantime Sgt. Streck, recently released from a hospital where he recovered from wounds, has returned to action to continue fighting for his country.

Throng at Red Mass

Abp. Cushing Says Law of God Big Need

Creation of a postwar world of peace based on the natural law of God was urged today by Archbishop-elect Richard J. Cushing in his sermon to judges and lawyers attending the fourth annual celebration of the traditional Red Mass for Jurists in Immaculate Conception Church.

Blood Drowns World Wrongs

"In our world of yesterday a way of life was built on economic, political and social plans, many of which flowed from anything but God's Law," Archbishop-elect Cushing declared today at the Red Mass.

"That prewar world is dead, killed by its own hand. It was held up by excessive rationalism, narrow liberalism, selfish individualism, unbridled capitalism, unrestrained competition, power politics. All its growth and development led only to the right of might. It has fallen under an avalanche of blood."

"Peace begins at home in the hearts of men and its course lies along the way charted by the law of God," he continued.

"This does not mean a restoration of Theocracy or clericalism. It means recognizing God's law as the foundation of all law."

"This global war with all its horrors will ultimately have been worth fighting only if it will restore that recognition of the moral law of God and, therefore, the rights of man. If it does not, then we have lost the war and the peace alike."

The solemn votive mass of the Holy Spirit, rich in pagantry and steeped in the symbolism of centuries, was celebrated by the Very Rev. William J. Murphy, S. J., president of Boston College, Archbishop-elect Cushing presided.

Assisting Fr. Murphy in celebration of the mass were the Rev.

Stephen J. Mulcahy, S. P., dean of the college of arts and sciences, as deacon, and the Rev. James J. Kelley, S. J., dean of the College of Business Administration, subdeacon.

Deacons assisting Archbishop-elect Cushing were the Very Rev. James H. Dolan, S. J., New England Provincial of the Society of Jesus, and the Very Rev. Robert A. Hewitt, S. J., rector of the Church of the Immaculate Conception.

The colorful procession of dignitaries of bench and bar and leaders of city and state from the rectory to the richly decorated church was headed by Gov. Saltonstall, U. S. Sen. Sinclair Weeks, Cong. Thomas J. Lane, Angier L. Goodwin, John W. McCormack and Christian A. Herter, Chief Justice Edmund W. Flynn of the Rhode Island Supreme Court and Mayor Tobin.

Charles S. O'Connor, clerk of the Supreme Judicial Court, was marshal of the procession. Acolytes, wearing red cassocks and white surplices and bearing the golden cross and candles, escorted the procession into the church.

Rich draperies of red silk and velvet covered the interior and floral clusters of roses blended with the richly embroidered red vestments of the officiating clergy in a colorful display of liturgical pagantry.

After celebration of the mass, Archbishop-elect Cushing began his sermon with an explanation of the Red Mass, saying it took its name in part from the red vestments of the officiating clergy and also from the academic splendor which once surrounded the distinguished personages who once assisted at the mass.

He said the origin of the mass Continued on Page 6, Column 3

JIMMY RAJACICH, 11 MOS.
Rides 451 Miles Without Dad

Dad Finds Baby After Chase

CHICAGO, Oct. 7—His worries now behind him, James Rajacich, 35, of San Bernardino, Cal., today was bound for Duluth, Minn., with a sharp eye on his son, 11-month-old Jimmy, whom he chased 451 miles from Kansas City to Chicago.

The hysterical episode, which would be laughed at as untrue if ever dreamed up by movie writers, began when Rajacich hopped off the train at Kansas City to get cigarettes and found on his return that the Santa Fe's California Limited had pulled out with little Jimmie asleep in a Pullman seat.

Frantic papa boarded a train for Chicago two hours later and began sending sheaves of telegrams with instructions about the baby's care.

The only one not excited about the whole affair was Jimmie's mother, who remained at home in San Bernardino, where she is waiting the birth of another child. "That's just like him," she said laughingly. "He's so forgetful."

The baby's train was flagged down at Henrietta, Mo., 40 miles from Kansas City, so the telegrams could be given to Conductor W. R. Harrison. He gave the baby a bottle of milk formula.

A porter stood watch by the baby's berth all night. Rajacich also was concerned about $3000 in a bag, which he said he intended to invest in Minnesota timber land. Rajacich arrived here three hours after the baby, and all was well.

Bricker Ridicules F. D. Plan to Cut Jobholders

ST. CLOUD, Minn., Oct. 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt's order that his budget director plan a reduction in federal government employees was described as "only a campaign gesture" by Gov. John W. Bricker today.

Dewey Predicts Big Vote Will Be Cast by Soldiers

By JACK BELL

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 7 (AP)—Received here by a crowd police estimated Thomas E. Dewey predicted that the percentage of soldiers who will vote in the November election will exceed that of civilians.

Bringing his campaign to the normally Democratic state of West Virginia for a major speech here tonight, the New York Governor told reporters he was satisfied that 77 per cent of the eligible members of the armed service from New York State would cast ballots in the presidential election. While he did not refer directly to statements by President Roosevelt in a radio speech this week that some persons have attempted to place hindrances in the way of service personnel voting, Dewey made it plain he was standing by his previous contention that the states should handle the ballots.

The Roosevelt Administration had contended that federal ballots should be supplied to all unformed personnel.

Asked by a local reporter whether he "opposed the support of John L. Lewis," head of the United Mine Workers, Dewey replied, "I have heard of no such support."

At Hinton, W. Va., Dewey told a crowd that he considered this the "most important political campaign in our times, if not in our history."

"The country will decide whether we shall continue to go slipping down the New Deal road toward complete regimentation of our lives or whether we shall take a better way," he said, declaring 26 different agencies are "telling labor what to do, when to do it and how to do it."

"Can't we get this horde of job holders off our backs?" he asked. "I don't want to have reconversion to unemployment," he declared. "With your help on election day, we can again turn America on the bright upward road, with freedom and security for everybody."

The GOP candidate for vice-president, declaring that the number of federal workers had increased under the Democratic administration from 572,000 to more than 3,000,000, asked:

"Why simply plan to get rid of some of these jobholders after the war as the President suggests? Why not do it now?"

Bricker quoted Sen. Byrd (D.) of Virginia as estimating that 300,000 to 400,000 civilian employees could be dismissed now without impairing government efficiency.

"On Sept. 19," he said, "President Roosevelt ordered the budget director to make plans for liquidating war agencies and reducing government personnel to a 'peace footing.' That is an excellent idea but very late."

"But the American people will refuse to accept that proposal as a promise that will be kept by the New Deal. Broken promises, subterfuge, fence-straddling and political expediency have characterized the entire Roosevelt Administration. . . . This amounts to only a campaign gesture."

Bricker declared, "The New Dealers hope to control the payroll votes by jobs and taxpayers' votes by promises."

At Milwaukee last night, commenting on the President's repudiation of Communist support, the Ohio Governor said: "The American people will believe him in that statement when he fires from high office the last Communist who draws federal pay."

He also assailed "government by secrecy," asserting: "For 12 years we have been governed by a secrecy, subterfuge and willful withholding of information. Our freedom is threatened by the insidious propaganda of the Administration at Washington."

"No one knows how deeply the President has involved us in secret agreements, secretly negotiated."

F. D. to Address Foreign Policy Body

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt today accepted an invitation to address a dinner of the Foreign Policy Ass'n in New York Saturday, Oct. 21.

The Foreign Policy Ass'n is an endowed private research organization which studies and prepares reports on matters of foreign policy.

In New York, Gen. McCoy announced that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, also had been invited to address the association "at any time that suits his convenience either in New York or at any of our 25 branches throughout the country."

More than 200 members of the United Office and Professional Workers of America, CIO, covered the downtown Boston area today, passing out circulars appealing to "white collar" workers to register and vote in the coming presidential election.

votes, in the aftermath of its premiere before a Symphony Hall audience of 2600 persons.

Spectators, more than 50 per cent of them women, forgot to applaud at the right times—that is, the times the anti-Dewey authors felt sure were the right times.

The real fireworks—and they were just that—came a few minutes after Earl Browder, Communist party leader, had concluded a speech which is thrown in free with the production.

Fully a dozen explosions rang out with shattering concussion, and at least a third of those in the audience leaped to their feet. The stage was set for panic but the actors, especially Miss Ann Burlak, the "Red Flame" of scores of Communist-inspired textile strikes, brought order quickly.

Police revealed that a package of giant firecrackers had been touched off in the outer lobby. Remains of the firecrackers and the box which held them were found by Sgt. Frank Mullen of the Back Bay station, but the perpetrators, believed to be young hoodlums, escaped.

The incident occurred while Miss Burlak was appealing for donations to bolster the fourth-term candidacy of President Roosevelt.

Pickets of women members of the Massachusetts Women's Political Club, led by their president, Florence Birmingham and carrying banners denouncing the meeting, were parading outside the hall as the meeting got under way.

"We came here to register our protest against Communism," Mrs. Birmingham said. "In this campaign we are not for or against any candidate, but we are not afraid to stand up for America."

Judge Censures Mother in Court

A disturbance created by a Dorchester mother when her two daughters were placed on probation after being found guilty in Roxbury district court on charges of drunkenness, brought a sharp rebuke from Judge Frankland W. L. Miles today.

The daughters, 22 and 21, along with a soldier's wife—all welders at the Hingham shipyard—were arrested early today.

When the disturbance started in the probation office, Judge Miles ordered all back to the courtroom and criticized the mother for causing trouble. She said it was the first time her daughters had ever been in court.

"It's one time too many as far as I'm concerned," Judge Miles said. "If you're going to be dead on your feet about these girls, the court isn't. The court neither take probation or I'll give them three-month jail sentences right now."

Addressing the soldier's wife, he said:

"You should be ashamed of yourself. Your husband, I am told, is serving overseas. Don't you think he has enough on his mind without having to worry how his wife is behaving?" You should keep faith with him."

Chelsea Block Swept by Fire

Raging out of control for at least six hours, flames today swept a block of buildings on Summer st., Chelsea, destroying thousands of dollars worth of war-vital rags and paper.

The first alarm was sounded from Box 28, famous box sounded for the Chelsea fire in 1908, and three more alarms speedily were rung, bringing aid from Boston, Revere and Everett.

Flames had eaten away at the waste for hours before discovery and finally broke out with such fury that the entire district had to be roped off.

Destroyed were one two-story block and two one-story sheds that stretch from Summer st. to Third st. At the height of the blaze, three firemen leaped for their lives just seconds before the roof of one building collapsed onto tons of flaming waste rags.

Arriving in the area at the same time as firemen were Police Sgt. Alfred Sebey and Patrolmen John J. Doherty and Kenzel Kelly, who warned residents in nearby dwellings

Earn Cash by Telling Why YOU Know There's a War Going On

Are YOU getting fed up with the overworked query: "Don't you know there's a war on?"

Most of us at one time or another have heard this question and most of us—who are well aware of the war—are getting pretty tired of hearing it used to cover any situation which confronts us.

If YOU have good reasons to know there is a war going on, put them in a letter, not more than 100 words in length, and mail it to the I-Know-There's-A-War-On Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

For each letter published, an award of $3 will be made to the writer, and for the letter which the editor thinks best sums up the reaction to this jibbing query, the writer will be presented with a $50 War Bond.

Think of the times that you've heard the question. Maybe it was because you were looking for a half-pound of butter, or your favorite brand of cigarettes, or because you wanted squash instead of mashed potatoes on your lunch-eon order.

To many the question is a slap in the face. Most of us on the home front have good and sometimes tragic reasons for knowing that there is a war going on.

Lorna L. Slocombe finally got fed up with it when she was asked the question in a Cambridge restaurant, and in the mild uproar which followed she asserted the question was being asked for the most part by persons who were trying to get out of giving the public the service it was paying for.

You might recall a similar experience. Sit down today and tell the circumstances and also why you know that there is a war on. A sample letter might read:

"Yes, I know there is a war on. My brother was killed in action in France and another has been in the South Pacific for two and one-half years. I work 10 hours a day in a war plant, I give blood to the Red Cross and I buy War Bonds. And I don't like to be asked if I know there's a war on when I try to get meat or butter."

Lynn Paratrooper's Daring Feat Rescues Whole Town

By NEDVILLE NORDNESS
WITH AIRBORNE TROOPS IN HOLLAND, Oct. 7 (AP) The audacity and suicidal courage of a lone Yank paratrooper, who broke up a treacherous Nazi counter-attack, saved from capture by the Germans the little town of Bergendal astride the Dutch-German frontier, one of the keys to defense of Germany.

Cpl. Walter J. Bednarz of Lynn, Mass., in a lone, daring stroke, made it possible for his buddies to open fire on the Nazis by thrusting himself between advancing German paratroopers and four priests, marching abreast, whom they had used for a screen.

Bednarz was in a foxhole defending a roadblock, awaiting the expected attack. But the maneuver of the attack shocked even battle-toughened paratroopers. The Germans, weapons in hands, strode toward the strategic little village in full view, with four priests in front of them.

Bednarz wormed out of his foxhole and snaked along a ditch. The priests came abreast of his position and passed him.

This was the moment, Bednarz leaped squarely between the priests and the German troops, his machine gun rattling. The priests scattered and fled. Supporting Americans opened fire on the enemy and Bednarz dived back into the ditch.

Bergendal now is under enemy artillery fire, but because of Bednarz's action is firmly held.

The town is a key road point. A modern highway leads into Germany through Bergendal from Nijmegen.

In person, by mail, telegram and telephone, scores of Americans from widely-separated parts of the country informed her she was a heroine, a courageous young woman and a welcome new type of pin-up girl, if not America's Darling No. 1.

Sedate but appreciative was an Army chaplain who visited her at her typing service in Holyoke st. today. Devoted and be-ribboned, he had just returned from overseas.

The chaplain shook her hand warmly and said: "Maybe this incident will make others think before they utter that senseless re-

Miss Slocombe sighed later, "He was so nice!"

Due to reach her soon was a check for $27.14, mailed by the Daily Oklahoman, collected in penny donations by that newspaper. The donors were Oklahomans alert to such incidents as the arrest of Miss Slocombe after the dish-breaking. They had first got together in 1938 after a citizen was arrested for asking a policeman why he didn't turn on his automobile lights.

"I think it is wonderful of them," said Miss Slocombe. "I am going to use it to help pay for my defense in court, Oct. 16. A thing like the could only happen in America."

Miss Slocombe is not eating at the tea room any more, she disclosed. "In fact I'm eating most of my meals at home because of all the publicity," she added.

She said she had returned the two dollars a Harvard sq. business man voluntarily gave the tea room to reimburse it for the broken dishes. "I have also felt obliged to return or refuse other gifts of money."

Tragedy Girl On Honeymoon

Grace E. Saunders, 18, of Newtowne court, Cambridge, sole survivor of a motor party in which three others met carbon monoxide deaths, was honeymooning today following marriage to Robert W. Pitrore, 25, of Howard ave., Roxbury.

The couple, wed in Broadway Baptist Church, Cambridge, first met a few months ago when the bride was recovering from an experience few girls have known.

Last January a motorist picked her up on Concord turnpike and rushed her to Cambridge City Hospital, where she blurted out a strange story of leaving a girl friend and their two boy chums in an automobile in Lexington.

Search of the Lexington area finally disclosed the automobile in which she had been riding, and the frozen bodies of her three companions.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Ralph E. Palmer, pastor, with only members of both families and a few friends in attendance.

MRS. ROSE ANN WEBB

Corinne Webb Pst. Wm. Webb

No Trace Here Of War Widow

Striving to halt the strange pilgrimage of a grief-stricken young war widow, police today searched Boston rooming houses and docks and piers for Mrs. Rose Ann Webb, 23, of Elm st., Lawrence, who has vowed to reach France, where her husband fell.

The black-eyed young widow, mother of a two-year-old daughter, vanished from the Lawrence home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony DiGregorio, when she left her daughter, Corinne.

Her husband, Pvt. William Webb, died on the Normandy beaches June 9 and her mission to be near the spot he died carried her first to Boston.

Disturbed by a dream, she left her job at the Brown plant, Union st., Lawrence, Thursday. Next news reached her parents in the form of the following postcard mailed from Boston:

"Dear Family: I dreamed of Willie last night. He was calling me. I am not happy here. I don't know how to say it, but I am going to try to get to France or die trying. Will turn over all the insurance to the baby. Take care of her. Love, Rose."

She had with her a little money, some of it from her earnings, that came from a government check that came the first of the month.

She and Pvt. Webb were married three years ago when he was stationed at Ft. Devens. He was a native of Valdosta, Ga., and she lived with him there for a year and a half before he was sent overseas.

LONDONDERRY

833 Howard Street, San Francisco 3, Calif.

From yesterday afternoon into the early hours this morning, an endless stream of mourners walking three to six abreast filed past the coffin of the man who was four times Governor of New York and presidential candidate in 1928.

Rich and poor, citizens of all faiths and political opinion paid their respects to their beloved Al Smith, born humbly on New York's lower East Side, risen to a national figure, the "Happy Warrior" who wore a brown derby.

The mass was preceded by a pontifical procession of members of the Catholic hierarchy led by cross bearers and acolytes. The procession entered the main entrance of the cathedral and the mass was begun at 11:10 a. m.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt arrived at the cathedral shortly before the service, accompanied by Maj. Gen. Thomas A. Terry, commanding general of the Second Service Command, representing the President.

Members of the former governor's family arrived in the cathedral from the archiepiscopal residence. There were about 20 in the group including Smith's two daughters and two of his sons.

A third son, Maj. Alfred E. Smith, Jr., is serving in the South Pacific.

The Most Rev. J. Francis A. McIntyre, auxiliary bishop of New York, celebrated the requiem mass while the Rt. Rev. Joseph P. Donahue, vicar general of the archdiocese, preached the sermon.

Smith, who died Wednesday, will be buried in Calvary cemetery beside his wife who died last May 4.

At 10 a. m. the doors of the Cathedral were open to receive crowds for the funeral service. About half the available space was to be open to the general public. Rt. Rev. Joseph P. Donahue, Vicar General of the New York Archdiocese, will preach the sermon at the funeral mass.

Gov. Dewey issued a proclamation designating today as a day of public mourning for the former state leader. He ordered the closing of all state offices and directed that their flags should fly at half staff for the next 30 days.

Abp. Spellman Offers Rome Mass for Smith

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 7 (AP)—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman of New York will offer a pontifical high mass for Alfred E. Smith, Tuesday at the Church of Saint Susanna in Rome, it was announced today.

Hunt Doorbell Bandit; Robbed Woman, 76

Police today sought a doorbell bandit who robbed 76-year-old Mrs. Grace T. Robinson of Atholwood st., Dorchester, of $5.35 when she answered a ring at her door.

Opening the door, she saw a man about 35 who gave hint of a hidden gun and demanded her money. She turned over the contents of her pocketbook.

Nazis Seethe

LONDON, Oct. 7 (INS)—German newspapers blazed with headlines telling of the plan of Treasury Secretary Morgenthau to transform the Reich from an industrial to an agricultural nation, the Nazi DNB agency reported today.

Propaganda Minister Goebbels was quoted as saying the plan was "designed to turn Germany into one vast potato field."

The fighting mascot of the Second Marine Division, Siwash the Duck, perches on the wrist of his master, Cpl. Francis J. Fagan, as they arrive in San Diego on furlough.

was debatable, but that the custom went back to the 16th century in Rome and England. It was inaugurated in the United States in New York and spread from there, being celebrated for the first time in Boston four years ago.

Turning to the war, he declared the nation must hope and pray for total peace when the conflict ended.

"The pre-war world is dead," he declared, "killed by its own hand. It was held up by excessive rationalism, narrow liberalism, selfish individualism, unbridled capitalism, unrestrained competition, power politics. All its growth and development led only to the right of might. It has fallen under an avalanche of blood."

"If the bloody and barbarous era of war is to be followed by a world of peace, there is only one way to bring it about—seek once again the Law of God."

"Many are the plans for the postwar world. But too often they are silent about the basis on which this society is to rest."

"All Godless philosophies of life that wrecked the world took away God and gave us chaos. Our future depends on the return of God to society."

"In some measure, greater than my deserts, I am to be charged with interpreting the spiritual implication of God's law for thousands of our people. In some measure you are responsible for interpreting the secular implications of the same eternal law."

"Under different and wisely distinct formalities you and mine serve this area under God. It should be easy for us to do with mutual understanding."

In the procession from the rectory to the church were: Associate Justices Stanley E. Qua, James J. Ronan, John V. Spalding and Raymond S. Wilkins of the Supreme Judicial Court; Judges Francis J. W. Ford, Arthur D. Healey and George C. Sweeney of U. S. District Court; Chief Justice John P. Higgins and Associate Justices Walter L. Collins, Daniel T. O'Connell, John E. Swift, J. Dorsey Aide Held In Narcotics Case

DETROIT, Oct. 7 (INS)—Federal agents early today arrested Anthony Picciotto, 26, popular trumpeter with Jimmy Dorsey's orchestra, after raiding his hotel room.

Picciotto, who is appearing with the Dorsey orchestra at a downtown theater, was arraigned immediately before U. S. Com. Stanley Iurd. He pleaded not guilty and was released on $1500 bond.

Ralph Oyler, head of the Federal Narcotics Bureau, said the musician would be tried in federal court in Columbus where last week narcotics agents said they seized 1200 grains of leaf and seed marihuana in the room he occupied while the orchestra was there for a theater engagement.

A small quantity of marihuana was found in Picciotto's possession in Detroit, Oyler said.

Wife Plans Flying Visit To Iron Lung Airman

Joyous over the news she has awaited so long, Mrs. Nancy Stevens Wesselhoeft of Westwood and Chatham today planned a speedy flight to the side of her hero husband, Lt. Robert Wesselhoeft, Jr., now at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, after a 65-hour air flight from India.

High Bail for Girl, 2 In Kidnap, Robberies

Two men who allegedly admitted a series of kidnappings, robberies and burglaries today waived examination in Roxbury court and Judge Frankland W. L. Miles held them for the grand jury in bonds of $15,000 each.

Their girl companion, Mrs. Edna Kelly Barnes, 21-year-old widow of a Canton war hero, pleaded not guilty to a charge of using an auto without authority and was held for the grand jury in $1000.

Police Capt. Edward B. Cain said the pair, Darrell Tanner, 24, of Canton, and John Mahoney, 28, of Howard St., Roxbury, were also wanted in Quincy, Walpole, Sharon and Norwood.

They were charged with two counts of burglary, larceny, possessing burglar's tools, carrying firearms without a license, and using an auto after the registration was revoked.

Cain urged high bail be set. He told Judge Miles he feared Tanner and Mahoney "might try to get legal expenses through crime" if allowed to go free before trial. Cain asked leniency for Mrs. Barnes saying he was convinced she was not involved in any of the crimes charged.

She was found in the same auto with Tanner and Mahoney while it was stalled, without gasoline, in Massachusetts ave., South End. Mrs. Barnes, whose sister-in-law was killed in action in the South Pacific, insisted she did not know the car was stolen.

Police said Tanner and Mahoney admitted two separate kidnappings in Quincy. They said, according to police, one of their victims was driver-collector for a cigarette-vending machine firm. That kidnap-holdup netted $1300 in cash and $1200 in cigarettes, police said they confessed.

The pair led police to a spot in Sharon woods where they allegedly said they cached the money. Unable to find it, they named a Quincy man as the one who "ran out on them" with the money, police said.

Police said they said the second kidnap-holdup victim was a Quincy used car salesman.

The burglary counts were based on their alleged confession that they entered a Dudley St., Roxbury, gasoline station, and a Washington St. Roxbury, tailor shop.

Tanner, according to police, admitted he and Mahoney were "innited he and Mahoney were "in" on the $104 safe break at Sharon railroad station, and said three other men, now in State prison, were with them.

The pair, allegedly, told of waiting on customers in a Blue Hill ave., Mattapan, liquor store while the proprietor was held in the back shop.

Police identified Tanner as the "cat burglar" who terrorized Roxbury and Jamaica Plain residents in 1938 by a series of housebreaks.

They were quoted by police as saying their "headquarters" was the car in which they were found. Police said they "lived" in the car, hiding out in Sharon woods between "jobs."

Wesselhoeft, stricken with infantile paralysis in the Chinese hinterlands, was brought to medical aid in India after one of the most amazing and courageous flights of the war. He is the nephew of Dr. Conrad Wesselhoeft, chief surgeon of the Haynes Memorial Hospital.

Told her husband is now back in the United States and able to leave his iron lung for considerable periods, Mrs. Wesselhoeft said today.

"I'd like to fly at once to see him. But I must make arrangements first for the care of our two children. I'll talk to him today and then fly on as soon as it is possible."

The evacuation of the 27-year-old aerial photographer, who now occupies a room at Walter Reed that once was Gen. Pershing's, is considered by medical men and airmen as almost a miracle.

Looking remarkably well, Wesselhoeft seemed unable to account for the fust that has been made over him since he first was stricken June 24.

No and no one could deny that a "fuss" had been made. For 12 hours he had been given continuous artificial respiration; and a primitive hand-operated respirator had effectively continued the treatment until July 7, when some 250 Chinese coolies completed an airstrip after three days' work.

Then Maj. Fred G. Welsh, of West Englewood, N. J., took over the most perilous part of the operation. In a liaison type plane, Welsh piloted with one hand while, with the other, he pumped a lever to operate an improvised artificial respirator which kept Wesselhoeft alive.

For three and a half hours they flew until the 14th Air Force officer was able to land again.

Personnel of the air evacuation unit then took over and next day the patient was flown at 17,000 feet over the "bump."

GI Sweethearts Urged to Study

If you want to hold your boy friend when he comes back from the far-flung battlefronts, girls, you'd better brush up on your geography and study a bit about world affairs.

This was the advice of Dr. William B. Pugh, chairman of the General Commission of Army and Navy Protestant Chaplains, to girls who have GI loves out there fighting.

He said the men at the front complained because the girls at home wrote only small talk and seemed to have no conception of what this war is all about and where it is being fought.

driven through the main line of resistance in this sector."

The gap in the Siegfried defenses now is about six miles wide and six miles deep. Advance elements were meeting only light opposition.

The American line now roughly extends from the outskirts of Geilenkirchen, three miles above Ubach, east to the outskirts of Immerdorf, then south to Baesweiler and another half-mile south to Oldtwiler.

Baesweiler is three miles east of Ubach. Seizure of Abbsdorf and a road junction more than a mile to the south put U. S. tanks astride important communications centers.

More American men, guns, tanks and supplies were pouring through the gap.

To the south, meanwhile, Lt. Gen. Patton's Third Army gained 100 yards in savage fighting in the six-day old battle for Fort Dront, five miles southwest of Metz.

The Americans there had taken everything the Germans could hrow at them both from the inside and the outside while holding northwest and southwest corners of the fort. They then began their assault on the underground honeycomb of the fortifications.

Sailor's Ring Vanishes With Diane and Nora

Paul D. Corliss, sailor attached to the Boston Navy Yard, isn't engaged and doesn't want to be—he just wants his $200 diamond ring back. That's why police are looking for two 19-year-old slacks-clad girls named Diane and Nora, whom Corliss was entertaining in a Huntington ave. cafe.

He told police he passed the diamond to his two companions to examine, then stepped to the bar for drinks. When he returned, the girls and the ring were gone.

President's 'Sub' At Peace Parley?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Senator Willis (R.) of Indiana, believing it "unwise" for the President to attend the world peace conference in person, suggested today the chief executive appoint the Secretary of State or "a commissioner with the same relative position" as his representative.

Willis said his proposal would prevent the difficulties encountered after the last war when President Wilson made commitments the Senate refused to approve.

Nazis Made Dollar Worth 300 Million Greek Drachma

PATRAI, Greece, Oct. 4 (delayed) (AP)—Nazi manipulation of Greek currency during three years of occupation had reached such a fantastic stage that today in this liberated fourth largest port of Greece one American dollar is worth 300,000,000 drachma, and a one-pound loaf of bread costs 18,000,000 drachma.

Before the war the rate of exchange was 125 drachma to the dollar, according to John Moustacopoulos, who is agent for several steamship lines. Today three cigarettes cost 5,000,000 drachma.

Liberating forces reaching here last night had trouble with their currency—mostly American $10 gold seal notes and British £1 occupation currency notes. There was no one in town with enough drachma to make change. Price lists in local food shops today read something like this:

Boston American, Oct. 7—9

Have a Coca-Cola= Eat, drink and enjoy yourself

...or adding refreshment to a backyard barbecue

One of the secrets of any successful home barbecue is plenty of ice-cold Coca-Cola. Everybody enjoys its life, sparkle and refreshment. Plan to have frosty bottles of "Coke" ice-cold and ready to drink. When you shop, remember to ask for Coca-Cola. Everywhere, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become a high-sign of hospitality in the American home.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

Simple Exercises For Facial Glamour

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

THEY TELL US that life begins at 40 . . . but who wants to LOOK 40? Take a mother for her charming daughter's sister and you're her friend for life.

Youthful look is precious . . . but we can't be girls forever. And, by the time we've passed that irrevocable 40-year-or-more milestone . . . we've become so used to our own faces that we scarcely see the changes in them.

If we're still young we can prepare for the later graceful years . . . coaxing our complexions to remain ageless with pampering beauty aids. If we're not . . . here's few facial exercises from a beauty editor's bag of tricks which you can try. Add them to your daily use of influential cosmetics . . . and watch the years go by.

Under that soft skin (we hope) on our face are many muscles . . . which in youth are firm and full. As we add year after year to our age they begin to shrink and sag. These muscles need support . . . and these facial exercises can be their revivifying tonic.

SIMPLE EXERCISES WILL HELP

To erase those deep lines at the side of the mouth . . . stretch your lips into as wide a grin as possible. Then, inserting the first finger of each hand into the mouth, pull the lips into a still wider grin . . . at the same time trying to close the mouth. A two-way pull will be exerted . . . causing the blood to dash through the large triangular muscle. Complicated? Not at all.

The second exercise is for drooping cheeks. Start with the grin . . . but open the mouth as wide as possible and close it quickly . . . meanwhile tapping the whole cheek with the fingertips . . . especially just in front of each ear where the large artery is located. And, if you want to nourish every inch of your face . . . lie flat on your stomach on the bed . . . with your head hanging over the side to permit the blood to rush into your face.

If you do these exercises five minutes daily . . . and we mean DAILY . . . persevering with helpful cosmetics simultaneously . . . we'll wager your face will never grow old. If you'd like to know how to achieve special beauty effects . . . such as shortening a long face . . . and lengthening a short one . . . or minimizing a chin . . . or narrowing a jawline . . . we'll be glad to send you helpful and precious advice . . . accumulated by one of the most famous beauty salons in the country . . . if you write us, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Fashion

IT COULDN'T BE SMARTER! Fur bunny topper . . . pearl dog-collar and earrings . . . and the stunning tunic . . . tailored in babu au thum wool . . . makes this costume one of the New York Dress Institute's finest. Snuggly buttoned, the tunic fits trimly over a one-piece dress with skirt to match the coat. Pleat treatment under the pockets is very new. —R. M.

Fashionables at First Symphony

By BETTY ALDEN

THE FIRST FRIDAY SYMPHONY, traditional opening of the social season in town, was attended yesterday by hundreds of social celebrities whose subscriptions are a treasured family heritage and by flocks of service men and women eager to see and hear Dr. Koussevitsky and his renowned orchestra.

It was a very special occasion for pretty Mrs. T. Desmond Butler (Dorothy West) for it was her first symphony in over four years. She recently arrived from abroad where she became the bride of a British Army officer and lived in South Africa and England. With her long British-tweed cape of blue and grey plaid wool she wore Navy accessories and her mother, Mrs. George S. West, was modish in black with a crimson feather hat.

Lt. and Mrs. C. Meredith Talbot, home from the West Coast, were warmly greeted by friends, the handsome Marine officer resplendent with many ribbons of valor and his pretty blonde bride lovely in brown and tan checked tweed. Mrs. Chauncey K. Hutchins (Polly Wardwell) was on from Chicago to attend with her mother, Mrs. Sheldon Wardwell, and beautiful Mrs. A. L. Scott (Catherine Little) sported a service pin for her Navy doctor husband.

Mrs. Sinclair Weeks in black with silver fox fur, Mrs. Nicholas Danforth in matching green hat and suit, Mrs. William Bayne with Mrs. Harris Fahnestock, Mrs. Max Whiting with Mrs. John G. Flint and Mrs. Robert Saltonstall, Jr., with Mrs. Henry Mason, Jr., were others attending.

Adorable in fuchsia and black checked wool was Mrs. Harrison Culver who with her infant son is staying with her parents, the Charles Jenneys, while Lt. Culver is on the high seas. Mrs. George Aldrich (Alice Burrage) in brown with a mink jacket, was back in her usual symphony seat after following her officer husband to distant posts.

BREAKELL-ALLEN

Mary Jane Allen, post debutante daughter of Judge and Mrs. W. Lloyd Allen of Waban, and Lt. Paul Breakeall, son of Mrs. B. F. Breakeall of Kenilworth, Cape Town, South Africa, are being married by Rev. Russell Stafford at a small family wedding in Gordon Chapel, Old South Church, at 4 this afternoon.

Given in marriage by her father, the pretty bride is donning her WAVE uniform, and enough to be married in ivory faille with heirloom lace and a bouquet of white bride roses. Her only attendant, Mrs. W. Paul Moorehead 2nd of Worcester, is carrying bronze chrysanthemums with her chaste white faille gown. A reception takes place at the Allen home.

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

My Day

WASHINGTON, Friday — Last evening a few of us gathered in the diplomatic reception room to hear the President make his speech. One member of the group, who had not been with us before, remarked that she had always wondered, when listening on the radio, whether the President could really be as calm as he sounded.

It was a great satisfaction to her, she added, actually to see that one could speak on the radio as easily and with as little excitement as if one were speaking to a friend in the same room.

THE PRESIDENT devoted his speech in large part to the importance of the work which is done by precinct workers in getting people to register and vote. This work is very largely done by women, and he took the opportunity to explain to women how great is their responsibility in this election.

At this time of historical crisis, it seems important that all people in a democracy, regardless of political affiliation, be urged to express their will.

It is important, of course, that they do this after seeking information and giving thought to the issues at stake. But to have such WAVE uniforms long decided by a small group of citizens would seem to be really a tragedy.

THE OTHER AFTERNOON Madame Manuel Quezon and her daughters came to say good-bye. They are going to the West Coast, where they will feel a little nearer their own beloved islands. It must be very sad to contemplate their return without the late President Quezon, who worked so constructively for his people.

The personal loss, of course, is very great, and in this case it is also a national loss for the Philippines.

Yesterday saw the final sessions of the White House conference on rural education. The close of the meeting left us all, I think, with a feeling of determination to do something to improve rural education throughout the country.

NO WOMAN need ever look old . . . and while she may not possess the endowed beauty of Hedy Lamarr . . . she can, at least, retain a youthful facial appearance . . . especially if she follows two simple facial exercises while she perseveres with influential cosmetics to stave off wrinkles and a dated countenance.

More Apple Recipes for You

By MARTHA LEE

WE HAVE HAD so many requests from readers for recipes to use up the surplus of apples now on hand that we are devoting another column to the subject. If the apples you have are some of the hurricane windfalls, they should be used or preserved immediately because it will be impossible to store them.

APPLE CHUTNEY

1 doz. apples, washed, cored and pared
1 large onion, finely minced
2 green peppers, seeded and minced
1 pimiento minced
2 cups cider vinegar
1 cup seedless raisins

1/2 cup red currant jelly, or plum jelly
2 cups sugar
4 lemons (grated yellow rind, and juice)
1 tsp. paprika
1 tsp. ginger
1 tsp. salt
Boil first 5 ingredients 1 hour, add remaining ones and boil until thick, stirring to prevent burning. Pack in sterilized jars. Wipe off sealing surface of jar, put on rubber and cover and seal.

APPLESAUCE

Wash apples thoroughly, peel thin, quarter and core. For 6 pounds of apples, add 2 cups of water, and simmer till fruit is soft, shaking the pan occasionally to prevent scorching. Cooking to a mush requires from 8 to 10 minutes. Add sugar to suit the taste (1 to 1 1/2 cups) and stir to dissolve. Pour hot sauce into hot clean jars, filling to within 1/2 inch of the top, and seal immediately. Process for 5 minutes in hot water bath. Six pounds of apples makes about 2 quarts of sauce.

SPICED APPLE BUTTER

4 gallons prepared apples
1 gallon sweet cider
4 pints sugar
1 tsp. allspice
1 tsp. cinnamon

Pare, core and slice apples. Boil sweet cider until it is reduced one-half. Add apples to cider while boiling. Cook slowly, stirring frequently so as to prevent burning. When it begins to thicken add the sugar and spices. Cook until it remains in a smooth mass when a little is cooled. Pour into sterilized jars and seal while hot.

APPLES (HOT PACK)

Wash, pare and core apples. Cut to desired size. If peeled fruit is to stand several minutes before packing, drop it into slightly salted water to prevent discoloration. Drain. Boil 3 to 5 minutes in a medium syrup. Pack into clean hot jars and fill to within inch of top with syrup, put on cap and adjust according to type of jar used. Process for 25 minutes in hot water bath.

RED CINNAMON APPLES

(Hot Pack)

Prepare a thin or medium syrup. Flavor with cinnamon according to taste and add enough pure red vegetable coloring to give desired shade to apples. Peel apples, leave whole or quarter, boil 3 to 5 minutes in the syrup. Pack into clean jars and fill to within 1/2 inch of top with syrup in which apples were precooked. Put on cap, and adjust according to

F.D. Retracts 'Free' in Speech

By DAVID SENTER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 — The hobbling of one word in the presidential speech Thursday night in which the fourth term candidate inferentially defended Sidney Hillman's Communist-dominated Political Action Committee — even while asserting he did not seek or welcome Communist support — today provided live ammunition for his political opponents.

The White House formally retracted President Roosevelt's statement that a speech by Fred E. Busbey (R.), of Illinois, attacking the Communist-PAC-New Deal alliance, was printed free at government expense.

Millions of copies of the Busbey speech have been mailed out by Republican members of the House and Senate under their franking privilege, but the printing was fully paid for from party funds.

The White House retraction followed an admission by Rep. Clinton P. Anderson (D.) of New Mexico, chairman of the House Campaign Expenditures Committee, that the President was in error when he said the printing of the Republican document was done at government expense.

Sailor Donates

12th Pint of Blood

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7 (AP) — Seaman James Restalrig-Logan gave the Red Cross his twelfth pint of blood. Previously he had made donations in New York, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Boston, San Francisco, Mare Island, Melbourne and Sidney.

The seaman got a pint of it back in 1942 when an explosion aboard a ship in his convoy fractured his skull.

Nazis to Evacuate All Warsaw Poles

LONDON, Oct. 7 (AP) — The Polish Telegraph Agency reported today that Germany had ordered the evacuation of the entire Polish population of Warsaw, estimated at one million persons, and added "there is every reason to believe they intend to send a large proportion of these to concentration and labor camps."

7 Michigan Convicts Cut Way to Freedom

JACKSON, Mich., Oct. 7 (AP) — Seven long-term convicts sawed their way to freedom from Southern Michigan State Prison last night, apparently during a prison movie performance, and were still at large today.

The fugitives included four lifers.

Buddy Gift Deadline Is Only Week Away

Just one more week—and that's all! The "deadline" is in most places next Saturday, only the Boston central postoffice will remain open until midnight Sunday, Oct. 15.

But don't wait until then to mail your package to a fighting serviceman in the Boston American, Record and Advertiser's Gifts to Buddies Overseas campaign. Do it as soon as you possibly can.

You wouldn't take a chance on spoiling a soldier's or sailor's Christmas, would you?

Of course not, but a serviceman's Christmas will be dark and dreary indeed if all his buddies get remembrances from the home front and he doesn't.

Here is the procedure to follow:

Fill out and mail the accompanying coupon. By return mail you will receive as many names as you ask for, names of servicemen overseas who otherwise probably will get nothing to make bright that one day in the year which should be everybody's brightest.

Then make up the Christmas packages and send them to those whose names were sent to you.

Soldiers, sailors, Marines, men of the merchant marine, and all the auxiliary services are represented by names still available from this paper, all that's left is for you to do your part.

But you must do this week.

After that it will be too late.

Here, as an example worth following, are some packages that will get around:

"Please send me," writes Mrs. Louis E. Sexton of Bigelow st., Quincy, "four names, one in each overseas theater. My husband, completing 30 years of active service in the Navy, has been assigned to a station here at home. He has told me how much my letters and packages meant to him."

Remember, the gifts most favored by soldiers and sailors are small, lightweight gifts, take little space and can be easily transported. Fountain pens, wrist watches, flashlights, automatic pencils with a plentiful supply of leads, leather military billfolds and wallets, shaving and toilet kits, combination game boards, stationery, playing cards, metal shaving mirrors and books are in great demand.

Don't send any perishable food. Fruit cake, well packed in tin, vacuum packed salted nuts, hard candy, and tinned delicacies in meat or fish are acceptable, however.

Good Judges of Good Whiskey to try a Fine Old Brand!

Wouldn't you like to serve a whiskey that has the full, ripe richness of the world's finest, most limited brands? If you would, now you can! Read why!

THIS invitation is written for the few men who are really good judges of good whiskey... who can appreciate a whiskey that is as gloriously rich, creamy and delicious as the world's finest, most limited brands—and who do not need anything more to confirm them in their judgment.

We set out several years ago to see if we could make such a whiskey. We spared no expense. We experimented. We drew from the world's choicest reserves. We selected the finest grains, and backed them up with the world's most delicate skill.

The result is — Fleischmann's PREFERRED, one of the world's most remarkable whiskeys: Velvety Cream! Full! Delicious! We can offer Fleischmann's PREFERRED only in limited amounts for some time to come, because our facilities have been devoted to the war effort... but if your dealer has Fleischmann's PREFERRED, try it! You'll always be glad you did!

THE WORLD'S GREATEST "MANHATTAN"! We say so! Just take 1 dash of Angostura Bitters, 3 oz. of FLEISCHMANN'S PREFERRED, and 1 1/2 oz. of FLEISCHMANN'S PREFERRED! Stir with ice, strain into 4-ounce glass, add one Maraschino cherry! That's all!

End the War VICTORIOUSLY
Make the Peace PERMANENTLY
Bring Our Boys Home PROMPTLY

HOPEFUL

MRS. MARY M. DOUCETTE of Waltham yesterday observed her 101st birthday anniversary.

Born in 1813, a full generation before the Civil War, Mrs. Doucette has led an uniquely active and useful life.

Even now she reads without glasses, eats practically everything she wants, walks unassisted and closely follows the news at home and abroad.

All this makes Mrs. Doucette an extraordinary woman in an era when millions of persons are literally wearing out and dying of senility before they are fifty.

But the future will be different. Sanitation, disease prevention and overdue progress in medicine and surgery will combine to produce many centenarians.

Diphtheria, smallpox, typhoid fever and other diseases which once killed as many as forty persons in every hundred have been virtually eliminated.

Soon we may expect positive cures for tuberculosis, cancer and similar maladies that still account for thousands of deaths annually.

So fortified by scientific knowledge and skill, a large percentage of the present population will live as long as Nature intended them to live, which in many instances might exceed 125 years.

'THROUGH SIDNEY'

THE AMERICAN people are demonstrating their recognition of the Communist-controlled Political Action Committee, under the mask of the sixteen years in the White House candidacy, and their dislike for it.

Chairman Brownell of the Republican National Committee considers the entire Middle West safely in the Dewey-Bricker column, and the so-called border States veering that way—largely because of public distaste for the Political Action Committee and its Communist leadership.

Sidney Hillman, head of the Political Action Committee, is RUNNING the sixteen years in the White House campaign in the same dictatorial manner he "ran" the Democratic convention.

He is raising much of the money for the campaign—by methods purportedly of solicitation and voluntary contribution, but suspiciously like an arbitrary LEVY against labor union treasuries and dues.

He has already wielded the power of "thumbs up and thumbs down" over the candidates for public office presented by the Democratic party.

He is trying to wield the same power over the people themselves, in their choice of candidates for public office.

But the people are not being co-operative. In Maine a month ago the people WASHED UP the candidates for Congress who had been "cleared through Sidney."

In the whole Middle West, the overwhelming majority of the people are plainly of the same mind and intention.

In fact, in all of the States where there is still the instrument of free choice available to the people, the intention and determination to WASH OUT THE NEW DEAL AND ITS COMMUNIST POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEE ARE EVIDENT.

SURE WINNERS

BEFORE Columnist E. V. Durling discovers the information in his Horses and Women Department, we shall disclose this important item of feminine interest:

The Coast Guard's pretty SPARS are receiving expert training in homemaking.

According to Capt. Dorothy Stratton, director of the SPARS, the girls are voluntarily taking courses calculated to make them model housewives in civilian life.

We have always said the SPARS were good matrimonial bets. But from now on we shall rate them as sure winners.

What shall I do with all the days and hours
That must be counted ere I see thy face?

How shall I charm the interval that lingers
Between this time and that sweet time of grace?
O, how or by what means may I contrive

To bring the hour that brings thee back more near?
How may I teach my drooping hope to live
Until that blessed time and thou art here?

"YOUR politeness and courtesy are due no doubt to the influence of your New England education," writes a Boston subscriber. This is a compliment with a catch in it. If I am possessed of politeness and courtesy, it is because my mother impressed the importance of the same on me in our home in the beautiful city of Brooklyn long before I ever saw New England.

WEARING OUT: "When the 6500 old-style sleeping cars now in service wear out that will be the end of the upper and lower berths. They will be all replaced by new type cars." So states an item in a business publication. Right now war conditions prevent the manufacture of new sleeping cars. But in the postwar period the replacement of these cars should not depend on when they "wear out."

That was the trouble with prewar railroading. They let too many things go to the complete wear-out stage. Why, sir, there is a certain railroad in the East that when I was a kid our family traveled on to a vacation spot. When I reached man's estate and was a commuter this railroad was using the same cars I rode on when a lad. And, furthermore, when a kid I strained my back trying to open a window on one of these cars for my mother. And as a man I nearly broke my back trying to open a window on one of them for my wife. I told her: "I think this is the same window that I tried to open when I was a boy, and I'm not kidding."

ASIDES: If you can prove to the OPA that a restaurant has charged you above the ceiling price for a any menu item you can get from $25 to $50 damages a meal... A kindly client has sent me a photograph by Sarony of Ethel Barrymore in the title role of "Sunday." That was the play in which Ethel spoke the immortal lines: "That's all there is. There isn't any more." It was produced 40 years ago... A San Franciscan claims the most beautiful street in the world is the Ringstrasse in Vienna. My vote is still for the Champs Elysees, Paris.

PASSING BY: Irene Castle McLaughlin, erstwhile dancer and film actress. Do you recall Irene in the film serial titled "Patria"? Insofar as figures is concerned she looks about the same as always, having gained only 2 pounds in 30 years.

Barney Oldfield. It was on June 20, 1903, that Barney first achieved fame as an auto race driver when he drove a car one mile in 55 seconds on the Empire City track at Yonkers. Scribner's commented on fact Barney had a cigar in his mouth all during this record-breaking ride. They said this indicated "remarkable nonchalance." Barney told me the reason he kept the cigar in his mouth was because he was so nervous before the race that he forgot to take it out.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—I am a 21-year-old Chicago girl. I can honestly say I have kissed no more than 10 boys and men of all that I have dated in my life. What do you think of that? A—That is very good for Chicago. In fact, it may be the record. Q—We tried to think of the songs Nora Bayes popularized but could only think of "Shine on Harvest Moon" and "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?" What other songs did Nora introduce? A—"Take Me Out to the Ball Game," "Over There" and "Broken Doll" are all I can think of offhand.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Marianne Monahan of Brooklyn has been made a member of the My-Name-Is-a-Poem Club. My girl friend just saluted her gayly. She left a box of hats in a railroad station a couple of weeks ago. In said box was her favorite hat. The box was found and now she has her pet chapeau again. Those fellows who work in lost and found departments for railroads are really good. I hope they are well paid... Excerpt from theatrical advertisement in 1914: "Tonight, 'The Birth of a Nation' Cost of 18,000 people and 3000 horses in this film which cost $500,000 to produce" (NOTE —The fact is "The Birth of a Nation" cost $130,000 to produce and grossed more than $15,000,000.)

WASHINGTON SCENE

By GEORGE DIXON
Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc. Reproduction Prohibited

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—It is too bad that Gov. Dewey does not have the perspicacity to hang around the National Press Club. He is passing up a wonderful bet.

If he would spend only his lunch hours there he would reap golden harvest. He would know just what to do at every turn so he couldn't possibly miss becoming President of the United States.

He would know all this because the members would tell him. They would advise him on every move. He would never have to exhaust himself doing his own thinking.

The club is lousy—I mean blessed—with members who have sure-fire campaign plans for the Republican nominee. And all that keeps them from getting their strategy across is that Dewey won't come around to listen.

TODAY at lunch, for example, I was privileged to sit in on a discussion at which one of Dewey's major problems was solved for him, just like that.

The conferees, in addition to me and a fellow who was alternately dozing and croaking "Sweet Adeline" on account of having started his drinking early, were a Mr. Francis, of Los Angeles; a Mr. Leyson, of Eushing; a Mr. O'Donnell of Boston, and a Mr. Waldrop from somewhere down South.

MR. O'DONNELL opened the proceedings by saying that if he were Dewey—by a remarkable coincidence he is not—he would crack harder at the big labor leaders.

Mr. Leyson said Mr. O'Donnell unquestionably was right, which was surprising as they haven't agreed on anything since the Black Sox scandal.

"I think Dewey is making a big mistake in going so easy with the labor leaders," said Mr. Leyson. "They are definitely out against him and all he can get from them is the worst. If I were Dewey (Mr. Leyson isn't Dewey, either) I would let them have it!"

MR. WALDROP interposed to say that the Republican nominee was trying to conduct his campaign in such a way as to preserve national unity whatever the outcome.

"I certainly don't mean he should attack labor," explained Mr. Leyson.

"These labor leaders don't represent the great body of working men. I wouldn't mind betting Dewey would get thousands of extra votes from working men if he pledged to crack down on the big labor racketeers who dominate them."

Mr. Waldrop told Mr. O'Donnell he was practically uttering heresy; that he was a member of the American Newspaper Guild which is CIO.

"That's just what I mean," said Mr. O'Donnell. "I'm a Guild member in good standing but I do not concede that any Guild leader has the right to cross his political views down my throat. I didn't know, or even dream, that I was going to get swept into a political machine when I joined the Guild."

MR. FRANCIS said that if he were Dewey (it seemed as if nobody present was Dewey) he would say:

"I used to be a prosecutor, and I pledge that, if elected, I will do everything in my power to bring these beasts of prey to book. No longer will they be able to prey upon the American working man with the blessings of the White House."

I started to say that maybe Dewey intended to do all this but was saving his big attack for the final stages of the campaign. I didn't finish, however, because the fellow who was singing "Sweet Adeline" fell against me and said he had a wonderful gag, if he could only remember it.

THE CONFERENCE came to an end because the "Sweet Adeline" singer jabbed his elbow in my soup, and, wagging his finger, said: "Lemme tell you somethin': if I was Dewey I would ———!"

I WANT to play fair and I would like to warn the White House that Mr. Rags Ragland, newest member of the President's brain trust, has also agreed to serve as my West Coast political observer.

"I will be watching day and night," Mr. Ragland assured me, "and will notify you the minute I see anything significant."

Mr. Ragland, who used to be in burlesque before he became too brainy, departed on his tour of observation with this injunction:

"Please tell President Roosevelt I have figured out a way to keep him in the White House. Just have the OPA freeze him there!"

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7.—Overheard two party guests recently discussing which is the most enthusiastic new father—Ronald Colman or Charles Boyer.

Charles Boyer

who has, I understand, a most interesting idea summing with 20th Century-Fox.

He's wanted on that lot for "Typhoon" (once heralded for Jean Gabin, another Frenchman) "Lady in Ermine" and "Les Misérables," in which he would play Jean Valjean. On the other hand, there's a story close to Boyer's heart at Columbia, "Jacobowsky and the Colonel," which might upset the 20th negotiations unless they can wait for Charles.

LOVELY ELYSE KNOX upset all those stories she is retiring from pictures to be just Mrs. Tommy Harmon by signing a three-year deal with Monogram. She was with Universal at the time of her marriage to the war hero, and while she wasn't among the first ten at the box office, had created a considerable fan following. She is an extremely pretty girl. She will have as her first Monogram picture the lead opposite Phil Regan in "Sunbonnet Sue," a story of the Gay Nineties, based on the songs and music of Gus Edwards.

I WAS AMUSED when Arthur Lake told me about his cousin, Frank Jones, who was a school teacher from Tennessee. Said Arthur: "Frank has now turned actor and is playing in Noel Coward's play 'Hay Fever' at the Westwood Theatre. He's pretty good, too, as the Englishman, but it is funny to me to see him as an actor." He was an English and drama teacher and majored in dramatics. I met Artie at a party Tom Luckenbill gave, and he said, "If our baby is a girl it will be named Marion, for Marion Davies. If it's a boy, we may call it Marion anyway." Well, it's a girl, named Marion Rose, born yesterday.

THE "MAISIE" series, like income tax, is a sure thing on Ann Sothern's schedule. She knows now she can never lose "Maisie" because the fans have so decreed by making "Maisie Goes to Reno" a box office favorite. After Ann's baby is born in November, she'll return to M-G-M for another "Maisie" epic, the idea of which is now being written for her, and it's being kept a secret.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Raquel Torres and Stephen Ames have adopted an 11-month-old girl. She has been named Bianca after Stephen's mother; Pauline Swanson and her husband, Leo Townsend, Warner Brothers writer, will greet the long-legged bird in February; there's a rumor it will be marriage for Muriel Morris and Walter Kane, now in the Navy; Betty Grable is mourning the loss of her 13-year-old dog that came to Hollywood with her when she started her movie career; Novelist and Playwright Ketti Frings has adopted two orphan babies in a New England soldier who was killed in the war. The boy is named Peter and is one year old, and the girl, Kathie, is two; Lillian Hellman is in town to confer with Hal Wallis on the filming of her play, "The Searching Wind"; June Horne, Jackie Cooper's fiancée and daughter of the late director, Jimmie Horne, has a part in "Miss Susie Slagle's." Interesting that Lillian Gish's doctor once was a boarder at Miss Susie Slagle's in Baltimore.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Der Bingle will be back in the U. S. any moment now . . . Kay Williams tells her "most intimate friends" that she and Clark Gable will wed around Nov. 1 . . . Dr. Albert Einstein is sailing at his home in Princeton . . . Paul Allen, the Frankie Carle tenor, and Mary Donohue, of the Woolworth clan, are swooning . . . Wendell Willkie's alias at Lenox Hill Hospital is "Mr. Williams" . . . Ruth Waldo, the "Topping mink" girl, is back in town—wearing silver foxes. She's just become executive secretary for an industrial firm . . . Henny Youngman, tired of reading rejection slips, will publish his own book, titled "Youngmania," on his brother's printing presses . . . Sidney Wood, the tennis champ, and Ann Kless, the glamour girl, are sniffing orange blossoms.

Mary Astor

JOE SCHENCK SAID: "What a beautiful automobile!" so Mike Todd gave him his town car. Every big Broadway spot has had a crew of City Hall assistants cowering over its books for the past five weeks . . . Mary Astor is in town to rest and read plays . . . Cafe Socialite Betty Biegel is being wooed by one of the biggest of the Washington biggies . . . Jane Withers will get a strictly glamour-girl buildup for her role in "Glad to See You." Wants her public to stop thinking of her as a child star . . . The newest hangout for the swank set is the kosher Old Romanian on the lower East Side.

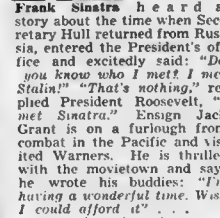

LT. TYRONE POWER is awaiting overseas orders . . . Ditto Maj. Robert Levitt, Ethel Merman's lord-and-master . . . Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who is making the rounds with his mamma, is long-distancing Marianne O'Brien, the starlet. Much speculation rife anent the status of the K. T. Stevens romance, inasmuch as Al didn't trek to Chicago to attend her opening in "Voice of the Turtle" . . . Theater owners are holding their sides over Mayor LaGuardia's suggestions to producers concerning Victory Night performances. They include starting the performances with the "Star Spangled Banner," followed by the national anthems of all the United Nations (Hey Butch, when do we see da show?) followed by a Minute of silent prayer, and winding up with a suggestion to the audience that nobody go in the direction of Times sq. (That last advice would probably be followed by a loud tazzberry, if not a ripe tomato).

Star Shine

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7.—War Notes of the Week:

Frank Sinatra's son, Fred, for he had an audience with President Roosevelt. Sinatra has been a Roosevelt booster, even wanting to buy time on the radio to campaign for the President. However, his sponsors won't allow him to do it. This is how Frankie became a Roosevelt rooster. He was in the White House story about the time when Secretary Hull returned from Russia, entered the President's office and excitedly said: "Do you know who I met? I met Stalin!" "That's nothing," replied President Roosevelt, "I met Sinatra." Ensign Jack Grant is on a furlough from combat in the Pacific and visited Warners. He is thrilled with the movietown and says he wrote his buddies: "I'm having a wonderful time. Wish I could afford it!"

ENTERTAINMENT: The British documentary film, "Lili Marlene," which tells the history of that German song and how it was captured by the British Army, has been playing the projection rooms. It is an excellent, entertaining picture and should be seen by the public . . . Xavier Cugat opened at Herman Hovver's Ciro's to a packed room of celebrities—and without a fight. In fact, the place was so crowded that no one could swing. Ed Gardner, talking about actresses, said that a movie star is just a plain girl who's beautiful.

BOOK OF THE WEEK: "No Mean City" by Simon Strunsky is a word picture of New York, its people, its customs, its character. It is a very entertaining book with much quaint

George Holland Boston After Dark

EVER ON THE LOOK-OUT for an evidence of artistic talent, this department today is proud to proclaim the discovery of a real artist in the person of a 11-year-old Brookline boy by the name of Peter Cohen . . . Peter is one of two sons of Dr. and Mrs. Abram I. Cohen of Clark rd. . . Dr. Cohen is the specialist who made a firm friend of Hildegard, when the Scandinavian-American thrush encountered throat trouble in her last Boston visit . . . A modest, hard-working doctor whose time and energies always have been at the disposal of the folk of the entertainment world, Dr. Cohen has been keeping a portfolio of his son Peter's water colors in his office.

THE PAINTINGS were exhibited in Maine a summer ago, when Peter was 10 . . . But an art critic, who insists for the time that he be not named, ran across the assembled works of the young artist by chance . . . He became ecstatic at the talent so unmistakably shown in the work, and the boy is soon to be subjected to lessons of an advanced nature . . . Restricting his brush to bird and plant life, the Cohen child—under no recognizable influence that his parents can point to—has turned out a dozen or so water colors which have a definite Chinese style.

DR. COHEN SAYS THAT his boy's preference for birds and plants as subjects came from Peter's fondness for the Maine woods . . . The past summer, renewing friendship with lumberjacks who work the forests near Harrison, Me., and had made him their pet, young Peter attracted the attention of a lumber magnate who had been introduced to the kid by his employees . . . After a week's acquaintance, the lumber tycoon was so impressed with the child's mental equipment, that he offered little Peter a man-sized job of checking-off the work of his friends, the lumberjacks.

YOUNG PETER is an all-around student in the Runkel grammar school . . . Listed the past summer as "non-swimmer" in a famous Maine boys' camp, Peter qualified in six-weeks as an expert, and in the qualifying, Jimmy Ten Eyck, the swimming coach, clocked him in an amazingly fast mile back-stroke . . . "Prodigies" so often are common "grinds," this corner was reassured that little Peter is a "typical American boy" whose young heart and mind obviously can encompass sports, studies and art at the same time . . . Remember the child's name . . . From time to time, we hope to be able to report his progress.

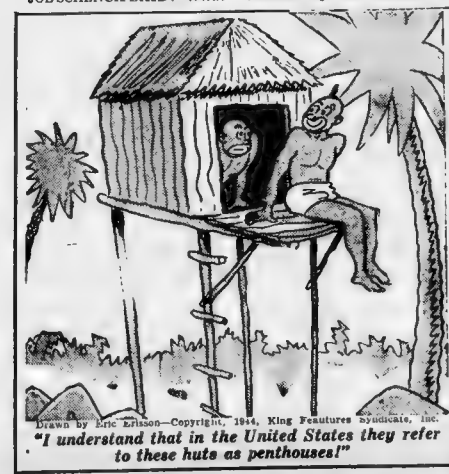

BOSTON—AND SPECIFICALLY the Music Box—is likely to get credit for the development into popularity of a good piece of music entitled "Warsaw Concerto" . . . Pete Herman's pianist arranger, Al Torey, became interested in the composition (the work of Richard Addinsell) a month or so ago . . . Al made an arrangement for the Herman quartet which besides himself at the piano and his boss, Maestro Herman, at the bass fiddle, consists of Lenn Russ on the violin and Ty Sherbo at the guitar.

THE HERMAN QUARTET worked long and earnestly in perfecting their performance of "Warsaw Concerto" . . . It is a beautiful rendition, the way they play it . . . "Warsaw Concerto" has become the "most-requested" number at the Music Box circular bar . . . It has passed "I Walk Alone," the No. 1 hit of the Hit Parade, and is much more popular than Holiday For Strings, previously the star number in the Herman repertory . . . If you haven't heard the number under expert interpretation, don't skip it.

T.C. Baker, GOP Candidate, Dies

Theodore C. Baker, 53, of Brookline, unopposed Republican candidate for Representative from the 10th Norfolk District, died today in New England Baptist Hospital following a short illness.

Prominent in Brookline civic and fraternal affairs for many years, he was founder and president of T. C. Baker Co., Brookline Ford agency. He was a lieutenant colonel in World War I.

He leaves his widow, Edith (Prescott) Baker; a son, three daughters and a brother. Funeral services will be held Sunday at 4 p. m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Brookline, with Rev. Frederic C. Lawrence, D. D., rector, officiating.

7th War Loan Seen By Morgenthau

ATLANTIC CITY, Oct. 7 (AP)—On the "most optimistic assumption, a seventh war loan will be required after the sixth, which will begin Nov. 22, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau said today.

In a speech prepared for delivery at a war bond rally, he told bond sales volunteers that "you cannot rest on your laurels," and said the toughest part of their job lies ahead.

Society Matron Takes Poison

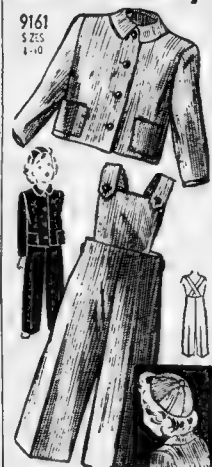

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (INS)—Mrs. Howard Reilly, the former Jean Harrington, 25-year-old glamorous society girl, was in serious condition at St. Clare's Hospital today suffering, police said, from an overdose of sleeping powders. Mrs. Reilly entered the Stork Club with her 2-year-old son, Timothy, and announced: "I have just taken poison."

She handed a note to Dorothy King, publicist, addressed to Mrs. Mary Phelps who lives in the same apartment house with Mrs. Reilly, in which she said she "couldn't go on."

Mrs. Reilly's husband is a former theatrical agent, now a private in the Army stationed in Mississippi.

Legion, Scouts Collect Paper

Legionnaires and Boy Scouts today launch a weekend campaign to swell October collections of waste paper so vitally needed to keep war supplies flowing to the battle fronts.

The American Legion, especially the posts in Suffolk County Council, centered their attention on stores and urged that the public bins in squares throughout Greater Boston be filled to the brim.

Boy Scouts began a house-to-house canvas in search of scrap paper of every description, asking housewives to save even the contents of waste paper baskets.

JVA Rallies for Fire Prevention Week

Hundreds of boys and girls affiliated with the New England Junior Victory Army are planning special observances of National Fire Prevention Week which begins Monday.

Over a million dollars worth of Massachusetts woodland went up in smoke during the year ending July 30, destroying over 20,000 acres of woodland, according to Robert B. Parmenter, extension forester at Massachusetts State College, who urges all JVA boys and girls to eliminate fire hazards around their homes and neighborhoods.

Fire Prevention Week is an all-out national effort to reduce the enormous, unplanned, sabotage losses from fire. The initial loss in forest fires is only the beginning, and does not take into consideration loss of time and labor needed for replanting, additional cost of new fires, damage to soil and wild life.

Forest fires can be prevented by keeping open all woodland roads and constructing water holes wherever needed, by learning methods of lighting forest fires, keeping fire breaks along roads and paths clear by burning brush and mowing grass. Most of all, care in the use of matches and fires is needed by every one, young and old, and patriotic JVA boys and girls can wage a "warning campaign" urging caution not only during Fire Prevention Week but throughout the year.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army, Box 728, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10-cent coin, well wrapped in your letter.

Read the next JVA story in Sunday's Advertiser.

Brecheen, Jakucki Hur Fourth Game

would need three straight victories to gain the world's championship.

Jakucki, winner of 13 games in his freshman campaign, eluded his season's efforts last Sunday when, on the final day of the race, he pitched his mates to the triumph over the New York Yankees that brought St. Louis its first American League pennant.

The same bright sunny sky which has prevailed since the start of this engagement was in evidence this afternoon, but the temperature had dropped about 15 degrees from the 87 high of yesterday.

The fourth capacity crowd of approximately 35,000 was in attendance despite pre-series predictions that Mound City customers would tire of this civil war after the first couple of battles.

Manager Billy Southworth of the Cardinals made no change in the lineup that was subdued, 6-2, by Jack Kramer in the Friday fray.

Due to the appearance of a left-hander on the hostile hill, Manager Luke Sewell of the Browns made one change in the cast which romped in the third game. Chet Laabs was back in left field, replacing the left-handed hitting Al Zarilla.

Thus the only left-handed hitters facing Brecheen were George McQuinn and Gene Moore, the Browns' two leading sticklers in the series. These two National League castoffs have been responsible in whole or part for eight of the 10 runs the Browns have scored in three games.

All 10 of these runs, by the way, were scored after two were out as the Sewell charges have lived up to their reputation of coming through in the second contest.

The Cards have been in a terrific batting slump all the way. In 30 innings they have registered only two earned runs.

They'd be three games down to-day if it hadn't been for Browns errors in the second contest.

The Red Birds have far more punch than they have exhibited, but whether they'll ever get around to displaying it in this series remains to be seen.

FIRST INNING

CARDINALS—Litwhiler struck out. Hopp got a single on a ball knocked down by Guttridge in back of second. Musial hit a home run over the right field fence. Jakucki threw out W. Cooper. Sanders struck out TWO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

CARDINALS—Kurovski fled to Kreevich. Stephens threw out Marion. Stephens threw out Verban. NO RUNS.

BROWNS—Litwhiler took Laabs' liner. McQuinn singled. Christman singled to right center sending McQuinn to third. Hayworth hit into a double play, Kurovski to Verban to Sanders. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING

CARDINALS—Brecheen struck out. Litwhiler singled off Stephens' glove. Hopp struck out. Musial beat out an infield hit. Litwhiler stopping at second. W. Cooper singled, scoring Litwhiler. Sanders was safe when his grounder went through Guttridge. Musial scoring and W. Cooper went to third. Stephens threw out Kurovski. TWO RUNS. BROWNS—Clay batted for Jakucki and fled to Musial. Guttridge singled. Kreevich fled to Litwhiler. Moore struck out. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING

CARDINALS—Hollingsworth now pitching for Brown. Guttridge threw out Marion. Verban lined to Kreevich. Christman threw out Brecheen. NO RUNS.

BROWNS—Brecheen threw out Stephens. Laabs singled. Brecheen threw out McQuinn. Christman struck out. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING

CARDINALS—Stephens threw out Litwhiler. Hopp fled to Laabs. Musial walked. W. Cooper forced Musial. Stephens to Guttridge. NO RUNS.

BROWNS—Sanders took Hayworth's foul. Hollingsworth rolled out to Sanders. Guttridge singled. Brecheen caught Kreevich's line drive. NO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING

CARDINALS—Sanders singled. Kurovski struck out. A foul off Marion's bat hit Hayworth on the leg. Marion doubled to left center, scoring Sanders. Verban lined to Kreevich. Hollingsworth threw out Brecheen. ONE RUN.

Lynn Athlete Starts for Irish

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 7 (AP)—Tulane's Green Wave, untied this season but boasting a seasoned backfield and five lettermen in the line, challenges Notre Dame's hopes for a second national collegiate championship today.

A crowd of 35,000 was expected to watch the first in history between the colleges.

The Irish, in their home opener and with Coach Ed McKeever making his bow before South Bend fans as head mentor, will toss a one-two punch at the Southerners with Bob Kelly, who scored four touchdowns against Pitt last week, and the passing combination of Frank Dancewicz and Joe Gasparrilla.

Tulane's hopes rest mainly with Fullback Harry (Chatanooga Choo-Choo) Robinson and "Dub" Jones, triple-threat halfback.

Iowa, Ohio State Meet After 10 Years

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 7 (AP)—For the first time in 10 years it was Iowa against Ohio State here today and the winner—if any—will have victory No. 1 chalked up in the 1944 Western Conference football championship race.

Off their 54 to 0 triumph over Missouri a week ago, Ohio State's backs rated the favorite's spot, however, particularly among the 30,000 home town customers expected to see the game. It was the first game of the season for Iowa.

Undefeated Illinois Meets Purdue Eleven

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 7 (AP)—Purdue's Western Conference co-championship will be on the fire here today when the Boiler-makers tangle with unbeaten Illinois to open their title defense. Illinois already holds a 26-18 Conference victory over Indiana, and a 26-26 tie with Great Lakes, while Purdue has beaten Marquette and dropped a 27-18 decision to Great Lakes.

HARVARD STADIUM, Oct. 7—Before an estimated crowd of 43,000, in 80-degree weather, Harvard's undefeated informals clashed with Boston College this afternoon for the second successive year. Last year's game resulted in a 6-6 tie.

Japs Boast Air Force Now Far Exceeds U. S.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7 (AP)—Japan now has aircraft "ready for action" which "far exceed the enemy's first-line air force," a Tokyo propaganda broadcast beamed to the United States claimed today.

The broadcast, heard by FCC monitors, declared Japan is now "posed for dealing a sledge-hammer blow on the enemy."

Attention Called To Fire Prevention

State Fire Marshal Edward J. Whittemore today called on all Massachusetts residents to join in observance of Fire Prevention Week, giving rules which would eliminate about 90 per cent of fires.

Chief admonition was the advice to clean and repair defective and dirty heating plants, including flues and chimneys.

B. C. Co-Captains Bailey and Donelan, only veterans from last year, met with Acting Captain Trumbull of Harvard in midfield. Harvard won the toss and chose to kick off.

FIRST PERIOD

Garrity kicked short to Casey who was downed by Pierce on B. C.'s 43-yard line. Sweeney crashed through the line and threw Elliott for a 5-yard loss. Cronin punted to Cowen on Harvard's 16, and Cowen raced all the way back to the B. C. 47, a fine 37-yard run.

Cronin, who punted, helped with the tackle. On second down, Cowen went off tackle to the B. C. 36 for a first down. A moment later, a Navin-Coulson pass gave Harvard a second first down on the B. C. 16.

Cowen went off tackle to the B. C. 11. A third down pass, Garrity to Coulson, missed completion in the end zone. A fourth down pass, Garrity to Cowen, who was in the clear, also failed, and B. C. took the ball on downs. But B. C. couldn't dent Harvard's strong line and Cronin punted to the B. C. 45, first down for Harvard.

Navin picked up five through the line. Garrity went off tackle to the 32 for the first down. B. C. braced and on the third down Navin passed to Coulson, who was all alone on the B. C. 10. But Coulson, usually glue fingered, made an ignominious muff.

On the fourth down, Cowen tried to pass, was smothered by B. C.'s white-shirted group and B. C. took the ball on its own 38. A nice pass from Cronin was muffed by Michelowicz and B. C. was forced to kick again. Cowen caught the ball on the 13, ran it back 10 yards.

B. C. was offside on the play, took the penalty and Cronin punted.

Minnesota Choice Over Michigan

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 7 (AP)—Minnesota ruled a slight favorite over Michigan in the Big Ten inaugural here this afternoon when the little brown jug, traditional trophy, goes on the block once more. The Gophers are still smarting from the 49-6 lacing Michigan administered a year ago.

SPORTSMAN'S PARK, ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7—Sig Jakucki, who a year ago today was a defense worker and part-time paper hanger down in Texas and two years ago today was a soldier of Uncle Sam, was pitching for the St. Louis Browns against the St. Louis Cardinals in the fourth game of the World Series here this afternoon.

The Cardinals, their backs right against the wall after losing two of the first three decisions to their American League foe, called on

Harry "Lefty" Brecheen, a veteran of last fall's classic. The Red Birds had to win this one or their cause would be next to hopeless. If Jakucki beat them, the National League champs

Nazis Burn, Pillage 1300 Greek Towns

By SID FEDER

PATRIA, Greece, Oct. 5 (delayed) (AP)—Greek patriots estimated today some 1300 villages and towns in Greece had been burned and pillaged by the Germans during three years of occupation and the most brutal was the "massacre of Kalavryta."

At Kalavryta, large district capital 50 miles south of here, the Germans machine-gunned 700 men and boys—the entire male population—sacked and burned the town and only failed in cremating alive some 1300 women and girls because an Austrian soldier unhooked the doors of the burning building in which they had been herded. The Germans shot him.

Fifty to 60 other towns in the region suffered the same fate as Kalavryta in the German reprisal campaign of 50 Greeks for each Nazi killed.

Just how many civilians were slain this way throughout the country it is impossible to estimate. It is known that some 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 were made homeless and many died because of exposure, disease and starvation.

The same savage treatment went on in large towns as well as small. This seaport of 100,000 population saw several of the German "50-for-1" reprisals.
